ThoughtCo/Marion Boddy-Evans. When painting this scene, I would apply artistic license to remove the cars from the jetty (they distract from the boats) and make the water a more interesting color (deep, dark blues, not bright blue, which will distract from the blue boat). The blue boat would be the focal point of the painting, as the splash of color immediately demands attention and pulls your ...

Place any size or weight of watercolor paper flat on a table or piece of cardboard. Use masking tape to secure the paper to the base or table. This will keep the watercolor paper from sliding around as work. Many landscapes are painted with the paper positioned horizontally, but you can paint with it vertically.

How to Paint Watercolor Landscapes: 14 Steps (with Pictures)

Don't paint the whole landscape to the same degree of detail: paint less detail in the background of the landscape than you do in the foreground. It's less important there and gives more 'authority' to what's in the foreground. The difference in detail also helps draw the viewer's eye into the main focus of the landscape painting.
