A client system without the storage agent can send its data over the LAN (using TCP/IP) to a client with the storage agent. The storage agent client can then send the data LAN-free over the SAN to storage resources which the storage agent client shares with the Tivoli Storage Manager server. You can install the storage agent on a client system, which does not share storage resources with the Tivoli Storage Manager server. In this scenario, the storage agent will not be able to send data LAN ...
